

Nixon, Chou reach official agreements

HANGCHOW (UPI) —President Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai have reached a "basic agreement" on a number of matters and a communique outlining these will be released in Shanghai Sunday afternoon, the White House announced Saturday.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said that "basic agreements between the President and the premier" were reached early Saturday morning in exchanges between Chinese and American officials that followed a banquet Nixon gave for Chou.

Ziegler said that there was no post-midnight meeting between Nixon and Chou, but that each leader worked into the early morning hours with his respective aides. There then were exchanges between the two groups in the process of agreeing on the wording of the communique.

Ziegler declined to say how many agreements were involved or to indicate the nature of the agreements. However, he said that the basic agreements were a direct result of a meeting that Nixon and Chou held during the week, and those sessions that Secretary of State William P. Rogers had with Foreign Minister Chi Pung-fei.

By the time Nixon and Chou held their airport lounge meeting Saturday morning before flying together to Hangchow, an agreement on what the communique should say already had been reached. The problem now is to translate it, Ziegler said.

He said he was not certain exactly what time the documents outlining the agreement would be made public in Shanghai Sunday, but that it would be between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. hours China time (midnight and 3 a.m. EST).

Ziegler declined to give any hints on what the communique contained, however. Other informed sources have said that Rogers and Chi primarily were engaged in working out the details of three agreements which call for:

—The inauguration of a program of cultural exchanges between the two countries, involving students, scientists, newsmen and others.

—An agreement to undertake efforts to increase trade between the two countries. Limited trade has been permitted recently after an embargo by the United States of more than 20 years.

—An arrangement for continuous diplomatic contact at a level below that of formal relations but sufficiently close and at a high enough level to insure progress on issues of mutual interest.

So far as the talks between Nixon and Chou are concerned, officials have indicated that the main problem was to find a way of setting aside the issue of Nationalist China while they worked on other matters which might be solvable.

The Chinese are known to have wanted a joint declaration following closely the "five principles" espoused by a large group of Asian-African nations at the Bandung Conference in 1955.

The United States reportedly was somewhat reluctant to totally accept the five principles, on the grounds that this might be used to demand that the Nixon administration abrogate its commitment to defend Taiwan.

U.S. Vietnam casualty toll heaviest in year

SAIGON (UPI)—A South Vietnamese general and three American servicemen were believed killed in a helicopter accident Friday and one American was killed and 33 wounded in combat for the heaviest U.S. casualty toll in nearly a year.

Brig. Gen. Phan Dinh Soan, deputy commander of the South Vietnamese I Corps which defends the five northernmost provinces, was missing after the U.S. helicopter in which he was riding took off from the destroyer U.S.S. Craig in Chu Lai harbor and crashed for unknown reasons 150 yards from the ship.

Two American helicopter crewmen and one Vietnamese navy commander were pulled from the water. The remaining seven men on board —three Americans and four Vietnamese, including the general—apparently were trapped in the helicopter when it sank.

Spokesmen for the U.S. command and South Vietnamese I Corps said the helicopter had a "technical failure." Divers were searching for the wreckage Saturday morning.

Soan, who had been I Corps deputy commander for just one week, would be the first allied general to be killed in exactly one year. Lt. Gen. Do Cao Tri was killed on Feb. 24, 1971, in a helicopter accident in which Newsweek correspondent Francois Sully also died.

In three battles Friday one American was killed and 33 were wounded. In addition, the U.S. command said in a delayed report two Americans were killed Monday when their observation plane was shot down at the southern tip of Vietnam.

The command said 22 members of the 7th Cavalry Regiment, Gen. George Armstrong Custer's outfit at the 1876 Battle of Little Big Horn, were wounded Friday afternoon in a five-hour battle with guerrillas. One guerrilla body was found. Originally the command had said 21 soldiers were wounded.

In addition, the command updated figures on American casualties from a 196th Light Infantry Brigade reconnaissance patrol that was accidentally fired on Friday by U.S. helicopters.

The command said one man was killed and three wounded in the accident, rather than none killed and five wounded as it previously reported. One more man was wounded by the guerrillas in the same skirmish.

The major action involving American troops began about noon Friday when a patrol of the 1st Air Cavalry Division's 1st Battalion, 7th Cavalry Regiment, walked into an ambush 42 miles east of Saigon.

The Viet Cong hit the Americans with a sudden, massive burst of rifle and machinegun fire, wounding 22 before the unit pulled back and called in artillery and air strikes against the Communist positions. The fighting continued for five hours, spokesmen said, and jet fighter-bombers continued to bomb and strafe the area even after the Communist force broke contact with American ground troops, withdrew and disappeared.

Equal school spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pointing out that New York spends $1,500 per student but Alabama only $500, Education Commissioner Sidney P. Marland said Friday the administration should consider plans to equalize spending by the states for the nation's public schools.

The administration already is considering plans to eliminate disparities within a state, Marland said, and eventually will have to consider disparities among the states.

"Some effort must be made at least to modify these differences," Marland said in an interview.

He said he favored a plan to increase the federal share of public school costs from the present 8 per cent to between 30 and 40 per cent.

Marland said the administration is especially concerned about the vast differences in spending within a state. A wealthy district in Indiana, for instance, makes $2,100 available for each child in average daily attendance while the poorest district provides only $580.

"At this time the administration is dealing only with the in-state equity issue," Marland said. "The interstate issue will, I believe, be confronted eventually."

In recent months courts in California, Texas, New Jersey and Minnesota have pointed out the disparity in school financing,

Israel raid called heaviest since 1967

By United Press International

Strong Israeli air and ground forces struck Friday into Lebanon along a 60-mile front to within 34 miles of Beirut in a major seek-and-destroy mission against Arab guerrilla bases. Arab and Israeli military sources called it one of the heaviest punitive raids since the 1967 war.

Al Fatah guerrilla spokesmen in Beirut said more than 30 Israeli Mirage and Skyhawk jet fighters, protected by an umbrella of F4

Phantoms, attacked targets as much as 43 miles north of the border and 34 miles from the Lebanese capital while armored units crossed into southern Lebanon. The semiofficial Middle East News Agency quoted Palestinian sources in Damascus as saying more than 60 Israeli warplanes took part.

Lebanon's military spokesman said attacking ground units included an armored force of regimental strength backed by two other regiments. The guerrillas said about 80 tanks and other armored vehicles crossed the border.

An Israeli military official in Tel Aviv called the operation "the largest against any Arab country since the 1967 Middle East war" but the size of the combined air and ground strike force was not disclosed.

Palestinian guerrillas said seven commandos were killed, 12 wounded and an undisclosed number captured by the Israelis who also destroyed 20 houses and damaged 30 more. But political sources said there were indications guerrilla casualties were higher than reported. Some reports from Arab newsmen in southern Lebanon said as many as 20 guerrillas may have been killed while at least 25 wounded commandos were reported in one Beirut hospital alone.

A Lebanese military spokesman said two civilians were killed, one civilian and a Lebanese soldier wounded and 24 houses destroyed.

LARRY WARNER, service patrol official of the Automobile Club, gives Linda Savinsky's bicycle a check for safety in a program generated in the schools to protect the bicycle-riding youngsters from the hazards of the road. Linda is a fifth grade student at Los Berros School in Mission Hills. Warner will conduct similar safety checks at other schools.

Top Irish official wounded by gunmen

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Gunmen, reportedly from the illegal Irish Republican Army, Friday shot and seriously wounded John Taylor, home affairs minister in the Northern Ireland government and Prime Minister Brian Faulkner's top aide.

Belfast newspapers said early Saturday they had received anonymous telephone calls from a man who said the official wing of the IRA was responsible for the shooting of Taylor. It was the first attempted assassination of a Northern Ireland government minister in the British province's 50-year history.

Taylor, head of the Northern Ireland security network, was hit four times in the chest and head when gunmen fired at least a dozen shots into his car parked outside the family's engineering firm in Armagh, 40 miles southwest of Belfast, police said.

Taylor was rushed to an Armagh hospital and later transferred to a Belfast hospital where his condition was termed "comparatively good."

The Belfast newspapers said they had no reason to doubt the authenticity of the IRA telephone call. Anonymous calls are traditionally used by the IRA to communicate with the news media.

The newspapers reported the caller said the shooting was a reprisal for the Jan. 30 "bloody Sunday" killings by British troops of 13 Northern Ireland civilians during a civil rights parade in Londonderry. The army has said the troops shot only after snipers fired at them but civil rights leaders have said the soldiers fired indiscriminately into the marchers.

Good morning!

Have a nice day

An interview with Paul Thompson

By VAUGHN PROCTOR
Staff writer

Paul Thompson is a good example of the guy who was in the right place at the right time. For example he recalls that his sergeant in the military service asked the platoon if there were any typists there. Thompson raised his hand.

"I'd seen a typewriter and had a general idea of how it operated," he said this week, "and as luck would have it, all I had to do was type a couple of words on the bottom of a letter that was then given to the officer in charge for his signature."

The job helped him escape some of the dull routines normally assigned to a guy on the bottom rung of the military ladder.

The happenstance of being in the right place also resulted in his getting into the library business. He was in the goat dairy business and used to go each day to pick his wife up at the local library. The library needed a driver for its bookmobile and Thompson jumped into the job. That was a few years ago.

In 1969 he became Lompoc's director of library services.

In between the bookmobile and his present post as city librarian there was a lot of honest toil in a variety of jobs, and a lot of education which he sandwiched between jobs, at night and during summers. He attended Modesto Junior College and studied library science at San Jose State College and the University of Southern California.

"I'd squeeze in the classes somehow," he said, with just a trace of wonderment that it all worked out for the best. Before coming to Lompoc he served in the Stanislaus County Library and became Turlock City Librarian in 1957

When his children — three boys and a girl — began to come along, he decided that it would help develop good work habits if they all had a farm to work on.

Once again he was in the right place. The railroad company had a five-acre parcel in Turlock that had proved a maintenance problem. Thompson was right on the spot. He and his family took over and soon were raising apricots, grapes, walnuts and peaches and keeping the weeds down.

Despite the diversity of his farming activity, Thompson has a soft spot in his heart for the goat dairy business. He's reticent about it though because "Some people have the idea that goats actually eat tin cans like they do in comic strips."

Actually it's the goat milk that interests him. He points with pride to the goat milk brand still sold in local stores as the one he helped nonularize just a few years ago.

Thompson was born in Iowa in 1926. Farming came naturally to him, but he recalls that he lived in Minneapolis before coming to California in 1943 and at that time thought of becoming a machinist. The idea didn't stick, but some of the skills he learned, have.

He also worked for Richard Penney, nephew of the late J. C. Penney in the family's Modesto store. "I decided, however, that selling shoes wasn't for me," he said this week. Nevertheless the job provided experience in meeting the needs of the public and Thompson is good at that.

These days, he's concerned about how his kids think of him. He doesn't want to appear so straight as to be completely foreign to contemporary life, but he'll stick by long standing principles in the end. Those include the presence of the bible on his desk at home, the saying of grace preceding each meal and his dedication to the spiritual rather than to the materialistic.

Thompson remembers how he used to cut his kids' hair rather than spend money at the barbers, how he made toys for them out of odds and ends of wood. He also recalls how he and his friends used to play chess, lift weights and make home made ice cream.

He once told me he was concerned about how all this would come out. He didn't want to sound eccentric. If raising goats way back when, and drying peaches on his roof for market, selling shoes, grubbing in the soil to produce food and now working long hours at a variety of community projects makes one eccentric, then Thompson is eccentric.

Arriving

ABOARD NI-HAO ONE. — Nothing weighty, quite yet. The feel of the approach. And some impressions. Everywhere we turn, we come upon the logo of this voyage. "The visit of President Richard M. Nixon to the People's Republic of China." It is thus emblazoned on our baggage tags, stationery, rucksacks.

At first, it puts you off. But if you sit down and doodle, asking yourself: what is a more self-effacing way to have done it, answers leap not instantly to mind. It is, after all, a visit. The U.S. principal, is, after all, the President of the United States. And there is no getting around the fact of his being Richard Nixon, or that his destination is — careful.

It may appear stilted, that every time one alludes to the area in question, one speaks of it as the "People's Republic of China." Actually, it is not only proper that we do so. We recognize a government which is called "The Republic of China," and that government sits in Taiwan.

Strictly speaking, it is bad form to visit a territory of a government you do not recognize, which government is in mutinous contention with the recognized authority. Thus, one would not, a few years ago, have traveled to Biafra. But if one did, one would avoid designating it as a visit to Nigeria. Accordingly, the constant references to PRC are, in fact, diplomatic appeasers, for the benefit of Chiang Kai-Shek.

The Communists systematically pervert the language — what Mao squats over is as much like a republic as Caligula's Rome. Ours is a republic, but there is bonapartism in the air — Lyndon Johnson would not venture to a barbecue without the presidential seal engraved on his blue jeans: or whatever. And, notwithstanding that Mr. Nixon is a little more informal, trappings - wise, bonapartization continues, thus "the visit of President RMN," when, one supposes, it would have sufficed, for purposes of communication, to refer to a "Presidential visit to the People's Republic of China," leaving it for our grandchildren to reach for the almanac to remind themselves who was president of the United States at that Peking summit, and to their grandfathers to hope that the almanac in question will be in English, rather than Chinese.

On the matter of arrangements, everyone is of course as helpful as can be, consistent with the uncommunicative Chinese, who husband their mysteries right to the end, so that we know not, even a few hours before our arrival, what it will be like.

The omens are distinctly not good. For instance, we have to land at Shanghai, before going on to Peking. Why? Shanghai is four hours from Guam, less than two hours from Peking. The ostensible reason for landing is to pick up a "navigator." Nobody on our team, presumably, ought to object that our regular navigators could find Peking all by themselves. And if necessary could get a little help from the Strategic Air Command. No, the gentlemen have something symbolic in mind, which they do not divulge. The history-minded recall that the emperors of yore required that visiting nabobs stop well outside the confines of the capital to sue for permission to go further. That may be the function of the stop at Shanghai, one never knows.

Another bad omen: we are allowed to take off the airplane only a single suitcase. Why? You figure it out. Aboard the airplane, we read, mostly, Theodore White, the gifted old China hand, now renowned for his series on the making of American Presidents, is ecstatic at the prospect of visiting his old haunts, and of justifying his early optimism about the vector of Chinese Communism. We tease each other. He looks up from his research from time to time, offering me tired Chinese tidbits in return for anything favorable I can supply him with. A few minutes ago he came beaming. "I have a clip saying the Red Chinese killed 34 million people. What will you offer me for that?" I rummage about, and offer him the clip that says the Red Chinese have reduced illiteracy from 80 per cent to 20 per cent, but he scoffs. "Hell, I have that one." Scrounge some more, for pro - Chinese Communist data, and tell him, disconsolate, that I can't find one more item with which to barter for his, and he smiles contentedly at his tactical victory, not realizing that he has lost the war.

Misuse of state cars probed

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Reagan administration is investigating alleged misuse of "undercover" cars intended for law enforcement by top state officials, including two sides of Gov. Ronald Reagan.

A report by the legislature's auditor general, William H. Merrifield, has questioned management-level use of the cars, declaring "the need for such a vehicle continuously over a lengthy period or permanently is doubtful."

Two of the state's 1,528 undercover cars are assigned to Edwin Meese III, executive assistant to the governor, and Robert J. Keyes, assistant to governor for community relations.

"If any of our practices are inconsistent with provision of state law," Ed Gray associate press secretary for Reagan, said Thursday, "then we intend to take swift and corrective action. We are now looking into this matter."

The cars were assigned to such other officials as the finance director, the head of the Office of Economic Opportunity Program and the corporations and insurance commissioners.

The 11-page auditor's report dealt with state cars that do not carry special emblems or license plates,

Potential salary hike stirring activity

By Dick Prael
County Reporter

The county's political beehive is beginning to hum — now that the county supervisors are seeking to raise their salaries to $18,000 a year from $12,000.

There are four candidates already in the field for the marshal position, and today the name of veteran Assistant County Clerk Howard C. Menzel was injected into the race for Third District Supervisor.

Menzel, who holds a $16,000 a year job as top assistant to County Clerk J. E. Lewis, said today he expects to decide shortly before the March 10 filing deadline whether he will run for supervisor in a field that conceivably could include six candidates.

Strangely enough, Menzel is an across - the - street neighbor in Goleta Valley of Jim Worthen, businessman and former state legislative assistant, who is an announced candidate.

Menzel, who has held his present post for some 15 years, could inherit the $22,000 post held by Lewis when and if Lewis retires. But Menzel lacks civil service protection and moreover the Board of Supervisors has shown an inclination to throw open elective jobs to candidates under a screening process whenever an official steps down, as Auditor - Controller A. T. Eaves, Jr. did.

Eaves' assistant didn't get the job, which was given to Assistant Administrative Officer Paul Floyd, effective March 1.

Other candidates who have announced for the Third District post being vacated by Daniel G. Grant, of Goleta Valley, include Attorney James Slater, UC Santa Barbara librarian Richard Duprey, and Mrs. Lyn McClurg, Goleta Valley businesswoman, in addition to Worthen. The name of Mrs. Jenny Perry, Santa Barbara newspaperwoman, has also been mentioned as a possible candidate.

Meanwhile, Fourth District Supervisor Francis H. Beattie took out nomination papers late Thursday to seek a third, four-year term.

Hancock performers work on two different musicals

Good grief! It's not one, but two jubilant musicals slated for Allan Hancock's busy Performing Arts stage: that "happiness is" show You're A Good Man Charlie Brown and that fantastic record smasher, The Fantasticks.

In its March production slot, the Hancock Performing Arts Center drives for yet another first - its first attempt at repertory theatre during the school year. These two musicals will be presented on alternating nights beginning March 3 through March 18.

Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt whose collaboration resulted in the recent hit musical Celebration penned some of their most effective songs out of inspiration of the moonstruck-sunstruck love story which The Fantasticks tells: "Try to Remember," "Soon It's Gonna Rain," "You Are Love" as well as the comic "Rape Song" or "Plant a Radish."

In January of 1968, this musical became the longest running hit in New York theatre annals.

The harlequinade style is carried to its fullest in the Hancock production of The Fantasticks, complete with a rustic "comedia" stage built onto the regular stage. A festival atmosphere is established in the mock-nostalgic tale which the narrator presents and becomes a part of. Vance Jefferies sings this role.

Bill Frankfather and Eugene Kusterer play a kind of Mutt & Jeff vaudeville team as the fathers. Santa Maria's own Jeff McCarthy sings the boy (Matt) opposite Mary Hinrichs' girl (Louisa).

The equally challenging roles of the Mute, the Old Actor and Mortimer the Man Who Dies, will be played by Howy Hess, Richard Des Lauriers and Boyd Gaines respectively.

Donovan Marley, who directed this musical five years ago for the old Interim Theatre, will also shape the new production.

You're A Good Man Charlie Brown doesn't take a back seat when it comes to records, having rolled up 1,597 performances during its four-year New York run.

The Charles M. Schultz comic strip Peanuts is the basis for Charlie Brown which brings to life the six most engaging characters of the Peanuts gang of moppets.

In an all-student cast, failure-dogged Charlie will be played and sung by Brad Gooding; shrewish Lucy by Ellen Snortland; everybody's favorite dog, Snoopy by Bill Randolph; blanket hugger Linus by Michael Cone; Beethoven-o-phile Schroeder by Sean Landers; and rope-skipping Patty by Georgia Bragg.

Jack Shouse directs this kindergarten romp for kids from six to sixty.

Teacher Barbara Sellers designed The Fantasticks set, and student designer Kent Homchick was awarded the job for Charlie Brown.

Tickets for this combo of musicals are now on sale at the Allan Hancock College box office, WA 2-1649.

Generation gap hasn't reached this family my parents' sense of values. After all, what respectable young man today gets along well with his parents?

Unfortunately, some parents seem intent on invoking the dubious principles of reverse psychology: They applaud wildly as Johnny "expresses" himself by telling Mom and Dad to jump out the nearest window, but they worry if he displays even minimal affection for parents, who, in many instances, have devoted a large part of their lives to him.

If you are acquainted with any frustrated Freudians, please suggest that they try to solve their own problems before inventing neuroses for the rest of us, in order to satisfy their own preconceived misconceptions of the generation gap. No need for anonymity here.

Commission plans hike in recreation budget

A new bucket truck for needed street tree trimming, positions for two more city tree trimming employees, a wide array of recreation programs and $13,150 in city park improvements were among the items listed on a first draft of the proposed 1972-73 Parks and Recreation Department budget as it was discussed at this week's city hall meeting of the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Drafted by the park staff, the total proposed amount comes to $330,422, up from last year's $255,813. The draft is expected to face tailoring by City Administrator Gene Wahlers and the city council in budget hearings to begin soon.

An additional $16,000 for two more tree trimming employees and $17,500 for a new bucket truck to aid in tree trimming appeared in the new proposed street tree division of the Parks and Recraft.

Recreation Superintendent Jack Anderson explained that 680 existing city trees can only be adequately trimmed with a department bucket truck and that trimming by climbing the trees or allowing trees to grow and lose branches is dangerous.

"I personally feel that, with the limited funds that we have, that you take a real close look at this and present the city council some data," Wahlers told the commission.

Additions to the recreation division budget include $350 for a portable calculator and $560 for an IBM electric typewriter. Anderson related that the typewriter was a replacement for the 1946 model now in use.

Commissioner Dino Pesci supported the selection of the electronic calculator because of a low maintenance factor.

Just over $19,000 will be requested to fund 21 recreation and sports programs from pee wee basketball to three Ryon Park band concerts. Most of the outlay will be for sports officials and staff.

Board okays hike for retirees

The County Employees Retirement Assn. board of directors has approved a two per cent cost - of - living increase to county retirees on the basis of the escalating cost of living, it was learned today.

Policy of the board is to grant a maximum two per cent boost to pension allotments where consumer price index studies show it is required.

The consumer price index during the past calendar year showed an increase of 3½ per cent.

Employe board member Howard Menzel said that the 1½ per cent difference between this figure and the two per cent increase "could be banked" for next year. If the price index went up only one-half of one per cent next year, another two per cent cost - of - living increase could be made, he explained.

A long list of proposed park development projects includes:

—Two horseshoe pits and two shuffleboard courts for Floresta Park.

—Working drawings of a senior citizens' building and area, two horseshoe pits and light standards at Ryon Park.

—Replacement of old bleachers and the addition of teatherball courts and a drinking fountain at Thompson Park.

—Four basketball standards for the South N Street tennis courts.

The already budgeted light standards for the new Ryon Park tennis courts, according to Wahlers, should be completed in April.

An addition to the parks division budget in the form of a $865 replacement mower was included in the proposal along with an outlay of $1,000 for new trees for the F.C.I. nursery.

County jobs open up for those on welfare

New county employment possibilities are being opened up for employables on county welfare rolls, it was announced today.

County Administrative Officer Raymond D. Johnson reported to county supervisors that he has met with department heads to determine how many new county jobs can be set up under the special program whereby welfare employables work for benefits received.

The County Flood Control District will employ 10 males on a daily basis who are capable of performing manual labor, Johnson said.

In addition, the county garage is prepared now to take an indefinite number of men or women to wash and vacuum county cars. Window washers will be utilized by the Public Works Department, Building Maintenance Division, and the Santa Barbara General Hospital, he added, with these departments possibly able to take additional persons for maintenance work.

Women and men to assist in the county print shop and mail room will be needed as well, according to the survey. Road Department and Park Department officials also have told Johnson they see openings for welfare workers.

The additional county jobs are opening up in response to a report Feb. 14 by County Welfare Director Arthur Nelson. Nelson forecast that there could be a substantial shift in welfare caseloads as a result of the lowering of adult age from 21 to 18. These changes, he felt, could result in an increase in the demands upon County General Relief, an expense which is borne entirely by county taxpayers.

West Germans paid commandos ransom

BONN (UPI)—The West German government paid $5 million ransom to a Palestinian commando group to obtain the release of a hijacked airliner and 14 of its crew from Southern Yemen, Transportation Minister Georg Leber said Friday.

Five armed commandos released the $24.8 million Lufthansa Boeing 747 jumbo jet and the crew members Wednesday in Aden, the Southern Yemen capital, after a secret code word was flashed by radio from Beirut to climax a cloak-and-dagger operation carried out in three countries of Europe and the Middle East.

In the first government statement on the outcome of the hijacking, Leber told a news conference the decision to pay the ransom had been based on the assumption that the lives of the crew were in "acute danger."

He called the hijackers "the most bloodthirsty group seen until now."

All 188 passengers and crewmembers aboard the Athens-bound plane when it was hijacked Tuesday after takeoff from New Delhi, India, have since left Aden with the possible exception of the five hijackers. They were questioned by local authorities and later set free. The plane returned to Frankfurt Thursday.

Leber said a letter from a group calling itself the "Organization for Victims of Zionism" and claiming responsibility for the hijacking arrived Tuesday at Lufthansa headquarters in Cologne.

The letter, posted in Cologne several hours after the jumbo jet had been diverted to Aden, threatened to blow up the plane, demanded the ransom and gave detailed instructions on how the money should be handed over.

"The messenger with the money was to wear a black jacket and gray trousers and carry a case in his right hand," Leber said. "He was to fly by way of Athens on a commercial airliner or one of three German charter firms."

"In Beirut, he was to find a car parked at the airport which had inside a picture of former Egyptian President (Gamal Abdel) Nasser.

"A note was to be left on the driver's seat saying where to drive with the money."

The Bonn government raised the cash Tuesday night—Leber declined to say where—and sent it to Athens with a Lufthansa security agent acting as courier.

Wednesday morning the courier flew to the Lebanese capital of Beirut, found the car, drove to an undisclosed point more than 25 miles outside the city and delivered the money.

Pioneer probe to carry I.D.

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)— The Pioneer Jupiter probe set for launch Sunday carries an identification plaque on the chance it might be intercepted by intelligent beings from some other star system millions of years from now.

The plaque uses symbols, including a man with his hand in a gesture of good will, to show to a scientifically knowledgeable civilization when the spacecraft was launched, from where it came and what kind of being sent it. There were no words written on the plaque.

The 550-pound pioneer spacecraft will be the first man-made object to leave the solar system and coast in interstellar space. It will fly by Jupiter in 22 months and leave the solar system beyond Pluto in 11 years.

The space agency disclosed details of the pictorial Thursday. The plaque design was etched into a gold-anodized six by nine-inch aluminum plate mounted to an antenna support so it will be shielded from erosion by cosmic dust.

Welfare director gives warning

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A top Reagan administration official warned Friday he would temporarily remove local welfare directors from office and take over their jobs if he finds they are not complying with rules and regulations.

State Social Welfare Director Robert B. Carleson said he would take such drastic action only as a "last resort" after he had exhausted other remedies to achieve compliance.

The director also announced counties will be surveyed on a "random sample" basis to determine the extent of welfare payments denied recipients who might not have received due process.

If the court were to order retroactive payments, the sum could be great. Carleson said the amount now was impossible to estimate.

He directed his staff to "review" the records of all 58 county welfare directors to determine how quickly and fully they had complied with rules and directives issued them by the state Department of Social Welfare.

At a news conference, Carleson amplified on what he will do to comply with a federal court order which charged him with disobeying a previous directive to make sure welfare recipients receive due process before their grants are terminated or reduced.

Angela Davis attends trial

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Angela Davis today attended the trial of the "Soledad Brothers," whose release from prison she championed before she allegedly was involved in a violent attempt to free them. Miss Davis faces murder charges next week in connection with that attempt.

Accompanied by about 10 friends and bodyguards, the 28 year old black militant arrived at the Hall of Justice less than 48 hours after she was freed on bail Wednesday night. Her appearance prompted Judge S. Lee Vavuris to warn the courtroom spectators against "black power" salutes or other manifestations.

Farmer's sons attacked

RAISIN CITY, Calif. (UPI)— Rodger McAfee said Friday his wife and five sons had gone into hiding after the children were attacked by their classmates and expelled from school because he put up $100,000 bail for Angela Davis.

McAfee, a 33-year-old farmer who calls himself a Communist, signed over the deed to a $330,000 farm as collateral for Miss Davis Wednesday. He said he would "stand fast" against persecution.

Mrs. Darlene McAfee, 32, said earlier she was greeted by principal Tom Davis when she brought her four school-age children to the Raisin City school Friday morning.

She quoted Davis as saying: "I can't take it any longer," and telling her the children could no longer attend the school.

Mrs. McAfee said one of her children had been beaten up at school and the others were abused.

She said she was told the children were being expelled from the Raisin City school because they belonged to a different district. However, the family was living only temporarily off its ranch during some new construction. There had been no objection to the children attending the school until the McAfee's connection with Miss Davis' case was disclosed, the mother said.

Explorer Post has deadline

Sheriff's Dep. Lloyd Southard will step up his recruitment drive for Law Enforcement Explorer Scout applicants next week to meet a March 4 deadline.

Southard launched his drive Thursday. Five boys applied yesterday. Southard needs at least 15 male applicants between the ages of 14 and 18 years to prepare for the opening of the first Lompoc Substation Explorer Post Academy on March 11.

Applicants must be residents of county areas of Lompoc Valley, be of good moral character and be in good health. Applicants must also qualify scholastically, but Southard said exact grade requirements could be waived under certain conditions.

"I know of one example where the Explorer Scout had some D or failing grades when he joined a post and now has not only all passing grades, but in some of his courses has achieved scholarship grades," Southard said. "The important thing is to have good moral character and be willing to make the kind of effort that is required."

Explorer Scouts will undergo a rigorous program of law enforcement training in a regulation Scout Academy. All phases of law enforcement will be taught including communications, records, evidence evaluation, search and seizure, and maintaining the peace. When the recruit has completed the Academy, he will take his place with other Explorer Scouts along side the regular Sheriff's forces in crowd control, traffic direction, search and rescue and dispatching.

Explorer Scouts will choose their own post number, design their own distinctive uniforms and maintain their own chain of command.

The post will serve the Sheriff's Department in county areas, much in the way the Lompoc Police Department Explorer Scout Post serves city areas.

The Explorer Post concept originated a number of years ago as an outgrowth of the regular Boy Scout posts, Southard said.

Guests saved in major New York hotel fire

NEW YORK (UPI) — Hundreds of people fled the landmark Commodore Hotel Friday as a five-alarm fire in the basement sent thick smoke pouring over midtown Manhattan at the start of the weekend rush hour.

An elderly hotel telephone operator was rushed to Bellevue Hospital in serious condition due to smoke inhalation. Fire officials said the unidentified woman stayed at her switchboard on the 26th floor, calling rooms to check on possible occupants, before she collapsed. She was found unconscious by firemen.

Scores of other persons were treated for smoke inhalation, including 20 of the 220 firemen at the scene. One fireman suffered a broken thumb.

Firemen wearing gas masks raced through corridors of the 26-story hotel next to Grand Central Terminal for guests who may have been overcome by smoke. A police helicopter darted up and down the sides of the hotel looking for persons who might be trapped at windows or on the roof.

The fire, which began in the basement of a ground-floor sporting goods store, brought dozens of fire trucks and hundreds of firemen to the traffic-clogged intersection of Lexington Avenue and East 42nd Street. There was a massive jam of vehicles.

By 8 p.m., four hours after the blaze erupted, several men in black tie and women in formal gowns joined the hundreds of spectators lining 42nd Street in front of the hotel as the fire continued to burn in the basement. They arrived at the hotel for a Young Americans for Freedom-sponsored Testimonial dinner for Sen. James L. Buckley, Conservative-New York but the event was cancelled.

The fire was declared under control shortly after 8 p.m.

Six hundred guests were registered in the 2,000-room hotel which opened in 1919. In addition several meetings were in progress when the fire started about 4:15 p.m. EST.

U.S. rejects plan to resume peace talks

PARIS (UPI)—The United States and South Vietnam again indefinitely suspended the Vietnam peace talks Friday by rejecting a proposal from the Communist side that the negotiating sessions be resumed next week.

Both the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegations walked out of the regular session Thursday after delivering attacks on President Nixon's visit to China, giving the Allied side no chance to reply or present statements of its own. The Communist side proposed before walking out that the next regular Thursday session be held March 2 as scheduled.

"We have informed the other side that we do not agree to their proposal that the next plenary session take place on March 2," said U.S. delegation spokesman Stephen Ledogar in a statement delivered Friday.

"We will be in touch with them through liaison officers when we have reached a decision regarding a date for the next meeting."

According to rules of the conference, any delegation can boycott a meeting and then propose a new date for the next session. The new date must be agreed upon by all four delegations.

IRREPLACEABLE PHILADELPHIA

(UPI)—The thieves who stole two bags full of rocks from the trunk of a car here would need an expert in geology to evaluate their haul. The rock were rare samples of such minerals as kuzite, redgar and a blue lapis lazuli crystal.

They were taken from the car of Paul Desautels, the curator of the museum at the University of Paris. "The minerals have no commercial value," Desautels said. "But scientifically they are worth at least $15,000. They cannot be replaced."

"We are such stuff as dreams are made on"

W. Shakespeare

Life would be pretty dull if people couldn't dream. Take that boat you're always dreaming about. Just thinking about it makes you feel pretty good. But you won't just have to dream if you buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Because Bonds can make your dream boat a reality.

Now Bonds mature in less than six years. Which means maybe it won't take forever for your ship to come in.

Just knowing you've got the safety and security of U.S. Savings Bonds working for you can make dreaming for anything a lot more fun. Because, with Bonds, the good times and the good things can really happen.

So, don't give up dreaming. Just keep buying U.S. Savings Bonds—they're the stuff dreams are made of.

Now U.S. Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.

Now Bonds mature in less than six years.

Education notes

By VAUGHN PROCTOR
Education editor
(Editor's note: The column is printed as material.) becomes available Readers can mail material to this editor in care of the Record or they can obtain supplies of a convenient education reporting form provided by the Record.)

Shirley Sauvageau and Gloria Wagner, teachers at Fillmore School have found an exciting new way to generate interest in history and the wellings of the American economy — they tie their lessons to two time graphs, one depicting the major events in U.S. history, the other depicting the flux and flow of the American economy. The teachers use the vehicle of the stock exchange to mold the whole thing together.

Mrs. Sauvageau got the idea from the UCLA laboratory elementary school in Westwood.

She says the program, begun as an experiment in education, now has become a whole new ballgame for the education of their fifth and sixth grade students. "For the first time some of the students have become interested in history. But the program goes far beyond that one subject. Students find they develop a proficiency in math, take a greater interest in reading well and voluntarily go to the library to hunt for materials relevant to the day to day program, according to Mrs. Sauvageau.

The program operates like this: Each day some of the more talented math students assign a dollar value to the stocks which are known to have been in currency on a particular date. In a 15 minute window each day the students buy, sell and trade the stocks using whatever they have left of an original allotment of $2,000 each.

Some of the students have already gone broke, while others have amassed fortunes, she says. The shift of coast to coast travel from the covered wagon and the stage coach to the railroad was a benchmark in American history and is reflected in a meteoritic rise in rail stocks.

Mrs. Sauvageau is looking forward to the period of the Great Depression if the class gets that far. "We'll go as far in history as we can before the school year ends," she said this week. The program has almost unlimited potential for generating interest in the world around us, according to Tom Love, principal. This editor learned about the program from Love who mentioned it in passing during a presentation he made to the school board recently.

BRIEF TAKES: A student teaching agreement has been approved with California Polytechnic College clearing the way for the placement of the college's prospective teachers in the district during the last six months of this ... An agreement has been worked out with Allan Hancock College in the Federal Work — study program through June 8 of this year. The program involves employment of college students as classroom aides. During his stay in the area, the aide receives a minimum wage, 20 per cent of which is picked up by this district. Long term substitute teachers have been reclassified temporary teachers under a new legislative requirement. The following have been approved for employment as classified personnel: Charles DeFlanders, Jannetta Desley, Judith Ferguson, Kay Kohler, Cynthia Lange, Shawn Linderman, Jean Magalong, Lela Morgan, Loren Pittman, Beverly Smith, Deborah Withrow, Faye Zubiate.

Local UCSB alumni join Lompoc project

Local UCSB alumni have announced they will join a campus group, the "Lompoc Project," in a drive to collect books for the inmate library at Lompoc Federal Prison. It was announced today by Santa Barbara Chapter President Ron Cook following a Chapter meeting.

According to Cook, the Santa Barbara Alumni Chapter and the UCSB Lompoc Project will co-sponsor an April 9 symposium on Prison Rehabilitation in the home of an alumnus to be announced later. Although the symposium will be open to anyone free of charge, those wishing to attend will be asked to bring at least one book which will be collected at the door and later transferred to the prison library.

Cook said, "The Chapter believes that events in prisons across the nation and the high rate of recidivism have demonstrated that the community can no longer ignore this issue.

"We are looking forward to bringing together a panel of experts to discuss the successes and failures of our penal system. UCSB has a number of experts which we hope to utilize, and we hope also to include prison administrators, probation officers and local legal officials. Following the discussion, we will provide refreshments while those in attendance will be encouraged to chat with and question the experts.

"Best of all," continued Cook, "the Chapter will be joining the UCSB students, faculty and staff of the Lompoc Project in contributing to a positive rehabilitative effort through the collection of books."

Cook said the Lompoc Project has already collected nearly 600 books for the inmates, "and we are hoping our symposium will gather many more books including badly needed technical and vocational books and books written in Spanish."

Airmen honored by foundation

Two Vandenberg AFB airmen were among the 20 Strategic Air Command airmen who earned awards in the Armed Forces Letter category in the recent Freedoms Foundation Annual Awards program. Sergeant L. Markham Dawson, 4392nd Aerospace Support Group, and M. Sgt. Thomas R. Mahoney, 394th Strategic Missile Squadron, were named Honor Certificate winners.

It is Sergeant Mahoney's second Freedoms Foundation award. In 1965 he won the George Washington Honor Medal for his letter entry. The contest topic was "What Is An American?"

Credit Union in election

The Vandenberg Federal Credit Union elected a new board of directors and credit committee at its fourteenth annual membership meeting held recently at the NCO Club. Elected to the board of directors were Robert O. Crandall, Jr., Buford Barrett, Wray M. Stutch, and Robert P. Smith. The new credit committee members are Ernest A. White, Thomas W. Gatlin, and Leonard L. Jones.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Sharon Wagoner, 25-year-old Youth Emphasis Assistant for the California Credit Union League.

Walton sinks 37; 49ers sink UCSB

Oregon falls

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Turning in a 37-point performance, sophomore Bill Walton led the undefeated UCLA Bruins to a 92-70 Pacific 8 victory over the University of Oregon Friday night.

The 6-foot-11 center from La Mesa, Calif., also pulled in 14 rebounds in a 33-minute performance, his best of the year.

UCLA's victory was the Bruins' 10th conference win and 22nd for the season.

Oregon, logging its 15th defeat in 21 games, started with a ball control game but after falling behind 11-0 in the first seven minutes was forced into more open play.

Billy Ingram was high for the Ducks with 22 points. Henry Bibby and Keith Wilkes scored 16 and 14, respectively, for UCLA.

At halftime the Bruins led 37-23 as they led all the way in the easy victory before a capacity throng at Pauley Pavilion.

Gauchos routed

SANTA BARBARA (UPI)— Cal State Long Beach, the nation's sixth-ranked team, won its third straight

Pacific Coast Athletic Association basketball championship Friday night with a come-from-behind 80-66 win over UC Santa Barbara.

The victory assured the 49ers a spot in the opening round of the NCAA western regionals March 11 at Idaho State University where they will meet the champions of the Western Athletic Conference.

The 49ers had to battle from 14 points behind in the first half to make it a close game for most of the contest.

Ratleff, with 25 points, was the game's top scorer followed by teammate Terry with 19. Tschegl and Steve Rockhold, each with 18 points, led the Gauchos.

Long Beach, with one conference game left to play, holds a 9-2 conference record. Santa Barbara is 5-6 in league play.

Vault record for Isaksson: 17-10½

NEW YORK (UPI)—Kjell Isaksson of Sweden broke his own indoor world pole vault mark Friday night by soaring 17 feet, 10½ inches in the National AAU Track and Field Championships at Madison Square Garden.

Isaksson, who along with Swedish teammate Hans Lagerqvist and Long Beach State's Steve Smith, cleared 17-4, captured the event with a vault of 17-8 1/2 on his second try as the other two failed at the height.

Then, the Swedish ace, holder of the recognized world indoor best at 17-9, asked that the bar be put at 17-10 and cleared the height on his second try.

Isaksson then failed three times for what would have been both a world indoor and outdoor record of 18 feet, one-half inches. Chris Papanicolaou of Greece holds the world record of 18 feet, one-quarter inch.

Former NYU star Byron Dye shared the meet's spotlight with Isaksson by delighting the crowd of 14,341 with a 4:01.8 mile victory. Sprinter Dr. Delano Meriwether, hurdler Rod Milburn and Olympic gold medalist Lee Evans also posted victories in the 84th annual meet.

Cabrillo crew makes it 2-0 with 5-1 win

Hall hurls Conqs past Chargers

By Scott Ostler

Cabrillo's Dennis Hall pitches better than he runs bases. He did enough of both yesterday afternoon, however, as the Conqs swept to their second win in as many starts with a 5-1 non-league decision over the hosting Dos Pueblos Chargers.

Hall, a thin lefty, went all seven innings, striking out six. He gave up three hits according to the highly generous (to DP hitters) home scorebook. Actually, only one of the three hits was legit. The other two were clear Conq errors.

Now about the basepaths. Down 1-0 in the top of the sixth, the quiet Conqs started some noise. Mike Kluge led off with a single and stole second. Howard Comstock hit a grounder to short and Kluge slid into third under the tag, Comstock safe at first. Pinch hitter Ken Murphy then hit a long fly to left center that dropped untouched, scoring Kluge with Comstock stopping at second.

Dennis Johnson grounded out and the runners moved up.

Then Charlie Glover fanned and Hall came to bat with two out. He hit a sharp liner that the Charger centerfielder Jim Abel overran. Hall quickly touched all the bases — well, he touched two of the four, in alternating order, missing first and third.

An alert DP player saw Hall miss third and the Conq hurler was called out on the appeal. None of the Chargers caught the oversight at first, which, if detected, would have cost Cabrillo two runs.

Conq coach Dick Wilson bought rest time for the puffing Hall by bantering with the umpires for a couple of minutes, making sure he understood perfectly what had taken place.

The Hillmen came back with a pair in the seventh as Kevin Drake reached third on an error and wild pitch. Goodrich walked then Basil Brown bunted Drake home. Two batters later Murphy sent Goodrich home with another squeeze.

Craig Felig scored the only Charger run, getting aboard by stopping a Hall fastball and later scoring on a sacrifice fly.

Hall faced only 26 men, five above the minimum. He appeared strong at the finish, whiffing two of the last three DP batters.

Weak hitting was the order of the day. There were no extra base hits and only three or four batters made solid contact. Murphy and Hall picked up a pair of rbi's each.

The Chargers were fellow members of the Santa Barbara County League last year with Cabrillo, but have since joined the 4-A Channel League.

The Conqs have a pair of games next week. Tuesday they host Buena, and Wednesday they travel to Bishop Diego Garcia. League opener is March 14, when San Luis invades the Hill diamond.

Saints whip Bishop by 20

The Santa Maria Saints (21-4) advanced to the third round of the CIF 3-A basketball playoffs with an easy 80-60 win over Bishop Montgomery last night.

Once again it was the devastating Saint center, 6-10 Tim Patterson, who led the way with 30 points. Chuck Menatti scored 16 for Santa Maria and Steve Brock added 15.

The Saints led 19-13 at the end of the first quarter, 29-21 at the half, and by as much as 14 in the third quarter.

Joe Appel led Bishop with 18, followed by Ralph Lepore with 16.

The Saints will now face Covina (27-2) Tuesday, probably at the Hancock Sports Pavilion, in the playoff quarterfinals. Covina polished off Antelope Valley 54-39 last night.

EUGENE, Ore. (UPI) — Joe Wade, 34, a head football coach at Compton, Calif. Junior College for the past two seasons, was named Thursday as an assistant to Head Coach Dick Enright at the University of Oregon.

Lakers rip Royals

INGLEWOOD (UPI) —There was little doubt that Los Angeles would equal its alltime club record of 55 wins for a season Friday night as the Gail Goodrich and Jerry West-led Lakers got off to a 38-15 first quarter lead and coasted to a 109-88 victory over the Cincinnati Royals.

In improving their season mark to 55-11, the Lakers snapped a modest two-game losing streak. As they have all season, the Lakers' high scoring backcourt duo was instrumental in leading the Pacific division pacemakers to a tie of their victory mark first set in the 1968-69 season.

West poured in 13 points in leading the first period rally, while he combined with Goodrich to reel off 22 straight Laker points in a third quarter charge.

Goodrich finished with 25 points while West had 23 although neither saw much action in the final period.

Rookie reserve guard John Mengelt led all scorers with a career high of 32 for the Royals while another first year man, Nate Williams, added 20.

Cincinnati's leading pointmaker, Nate Archibald, was held scoreless. The 6-1 guard had scored 55 and 32 points in his last two games, but coach Bob Cousy didn't play him after 2:16 of the first quarter.

Nor did another starter, Tom Van Arsdale, play after the first period. In addition, Matt Guokas suffered a sprained left ankle during the Lakers' first period blitz and didn't return.

The Lakers scored the first eight points of the game and after Cincinnati got four back, Los Angeles leaped to a 20-6 advantage. With the reserves in the game, Cincinnati outpointed the Lakers 28-18 in the second period to pull within 13 at the half.

But again Los Angeles poured in eight straight points to start the second half and their advantage moved to 28 points and they coasted home.

Bulls take suns

CHICAGO (UPI) —The Chicago Bulls broke open a seesaw battle in the fourth quarter on Norm Van Lier's six straight points Friday night to push past the Phoenix Suns and win the National Basketball Association contest 115-107.

The win increased the Bulls' Midwest division lead over the Suns to eight games and virtually eliminated the Phoenix team from a division playoff berth.

Norm Van Lier led the Bulls with 29, followed by Chet Walker with 22.

Eyes future as athletic trainer

McIntyre resigns as Cabrillo coach

Don McIntyre, varsity basketball coach at Cabrillo High for all of its seven years, has announced his resignation.

No successor has been named.

The resignation took place with a complete lack of hard feelings all around. McIntyre plans to attend summer school to begin work on his second masters degree that he hopes will eventually lead to a job as a trainer for professional sports team. He will continue as Chairman of the Boy's Physical Education Dept. at Cabrillo.

"I had a good time coaching," smiled McIntyre. "The people have been super. The two athletic directors (Dick Wilson and Evert Jones), the administration, the parents, and the kids have all been great ... Cabrillo is an outstanding place to coach."

Cabrillo principal Robert Bickford said, "We are very appreciative of Coach McIntyre's efforts as Head Basketball Coach for the past seven years. We are certainly disappointed he will not be with us next season. It is our hope Coach McIntyre will have continued success in future endeavors."

McIntyre stated that his only disappointment in 10 years of coaching in the district (first three as Lompoc High JV coach) was his won - lost record.

"The kids haven't had super talent, but they've all been outstanding hustlers, really dedicated."

"As far as I'm concerned, the kids are at Cabrillo for one thing — an education. Athletics are secondary."

"I've had great rapport with the kids. We've gotten along extremely well. It's been a real learning situation. We've done a lot for the kids and I think they've appreciated what we've tried to do."

McIntyre, who is 35, has a masters degree in physical education from Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

In his undergraduate days at Mayville State Teachers College in North Dakota he played on just about every athletic team in sight. He was Honorable Mention Little All-American in basketball, averaging 23 per game as a senior. McIntyre played baseball, track and football. He attended spring training with the Pittsburgh Pirates after graduation, but was cut.

"I'd like to stay around athletics and competition," Mac stated. "The idea of becoming a trainer seems pretty decent."

He hopes to hook on with a minor pro team during the summers to acquire practical experience while he works on his masters.

Asked to name the best player he has ever coached, McIntyre singled out Jim Clesson, who is now a starter for Tulsa University. Past opponents that stand out in McIntyre's mind are people like Steve Patterson, Roy Thomas, Ken Heitz, Bobby White, Doug Little, Keith Wilkes, Art Willmore.

Mac's best team was the '68 quintet, which featured Clesson, Tim O'Brien and Randy Norris, averaging 21, 19, and 17 a game. The team finished 15-7 (5-5 in league) after losing two starters due to transfers, a perennial problem for Cabrillo coaches.

Tourney-bound 'Dogs familiar with winning

SANTA MARIA, CALIF. — Central Conference basketball championships and the Allan Hancock College Bulldogs have gone hand-in-hand through the years and 1972 proved no exception for Coach Bob McCutcheon and his Central California Community College Athletic Association titlists as they went through a perfect 10-0 league season.

Making what was the final run through the Central Conference — Hancock has already been approved for Western State Conference membership in 1972-73 — the Bulldogs have returned to the spot to which they are accustomed. Hancock teams won the Central for a 10-year stretch (1958-69) and have finished no worse than second since and tied with Merced for last year's playoffs before bowing to Hartnell in the regionals.

But this year's squad bears no resemblance to that of 1971. Only reserve guard Larry Young — who dropped from the squad in mid-season to concentrate on track — was on that team. Another player, 6-4 forward Jerry McDaniel from Washington, D.C., decided to leave school at semester break for personal reasons.

Playing sometimes with only two — at a maximum four — on the bench, McCutcheon's cagers have shown a hustling defense oriented club that pinned a lot of the season success on desire and near-equal talent by all five starters.

Gus Washington, a 6-5 forward-center from Fairmonts High in Brooklyn, N.Y., blended well with guard Angel Torres (6-1) and former Righetti all-CIF pick Mike Jones (6-4) in the scoring. Washington holds the top average (16.0) just ahead of Torres (15.9) and Jones (15.0). Washington and Torres both were voted to the All-Central Conference first five.

Playing at the guard slot alongside Torres has been 6-3 frosh Rick McCutcheon, Bob's son ... and one of two Bulldog athletes participating in athletics under the guidance of their fathers. (The other is sophomore decathlete and pole vaulter Kenny Kring, who listens to the advice of spike mentor Ray Kring.) McCutcheon has shown that a mid-season knee operation in his senior year at Santa Maria High last year had little affect upon his collegiate ability and sports a 10.0 average as a starter. He received second team all-league honors.

When McDaniel left school in mid-season as the Bulldogs' scoring leader, a slump was expected. The Bulldogs failed to follow form when 6-6 reserve Alan Singleton showed he was ready for the starting assignment in the front line. Since then he has given the 'Dogs additional depth, hitting a personal high of 27 in the Bulldogs' recent 84-69 triumph over West Hills of Coalinga.

Waiting in the wings for opportunities to play relief roles have been two players who have shown their worth, 5-11 guard Tommy Wishard, a high-accuracy shooter from the 20-foot range and a scrappy Toby Rasco (6-0), who has yet to give any ground under the boards.

After dropping their opening round game to Foothill in their own Holiday tournament in December, the Bulldogs ran off a strong of 17 straight when they finished the Central Conference season. Among the victims were Western State leader Santa Barbara CC, which dropped both meetings with the Bulldogs this year, Modesto, San Jose CC, the UC Santa Barbara Frosh, and the USC Trojans. The Trojans had entered that Jan. 8 contest with a 7-0 mark and at last count had only that overtime (68-67) setback at the hands of the Bulldogs blemishing their record.

From the standpoint of overtime pressure, the Bulldogs to date have shown extra sessions mean little, winning three of four. Other overtime decisions came over Reedley (89-88) and Fresno CC (93-90 in four), while Hancock lost to Ventura (107-105) in the third clash of the season. Hancock later beat Ventura en route to the consolation title of the Modesto JC Tourney.

Some irreverent but sporting opinions

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN FRANCISCO (NEA) DECLARATIONS OF IMPUDENCE: Jimmy (The Greek) Snyder, the self-promoting odds announcer (not maker) from Las Vegas, doesn't know any more about predicting a game than your nearest bartender or, you should pardon the expression, sportswriter.

It's really amazing you can't find a guy who says the last Super Bowl was anything but boring. And yet they all managed to watch every boring play right down to the end.

Pete Rozelle's fervent wish to hold the Super Bowl at Stanford University is being stymied by the reluctance of Gov. Ronald Reagan and the California legislature to pass a special bill which would make the tax-free Stanford stadium available to the pros.

The shortest careers of them all, even shorter than girl swimmers, belong to boxing promoters. Or whatever happened to Bill Rosensohn and Jerry Perenchio, who ever they were?

How come most gal golfers look like Russian female shotputters while the tennis babes, with their history of frilly lace (you still there, Gussie?), manage to preserve the ladylike look?

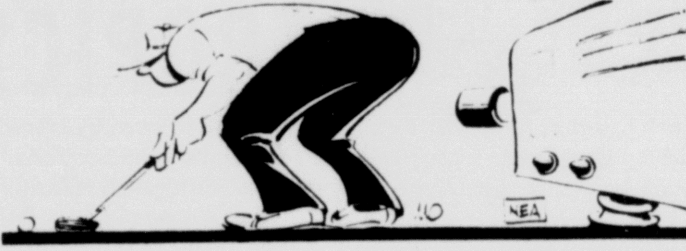

I'd like someone to explain a forceout to me logically in the game of basketball, where body contact is supposed to produce a foul. Power of suggestion isn't shoving the guy out of bounds.

Any football coach you talk to still defends the use of prevent defenses but never produces percentages to prove they work. A "prevent" is how Miami got in position to score its only Super Bowl points.

How can pro basketball be a legitimate sporting event as long as fouling is a basic strategy of the game? And some benchwarmers' only function is to go in and hack off quick fouls.

I'm waiting for the day they stop referring to Francis Ashbury Tarkenton as the goody-goody son of a preacher man when he's really a red-blooded American boy like all the rest.

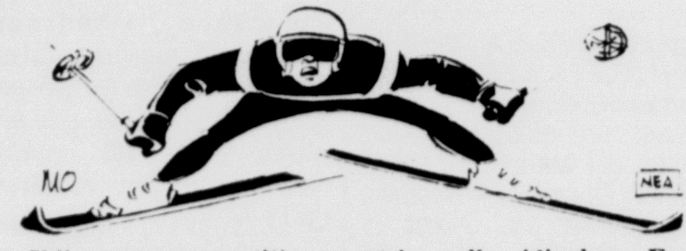

The dreariest spectacle in sports is a golf telecast, or where's the thrill of zooming in on a posterior as the guy bends to tap a little pellet six feet and color men provide some of the biggest garbage about nap of the green, etc.?

If Howard Cosell didn't really know what he was talking about, he'd be a pompous bore. He put on a toupee and changed his name and tells it like it is—a line I picked up at the Super Bowl.

The Pro Bowl, which was once rapped for banning blitzes, also forbids the blocking of punts. So Bubba Smith wasn't really jacking it when he burst through and then jauntily ignored the kicker.

The Hot Stove League has long ago given way to the electronic cooker, and in the age of the ballpoint no one even inks a pact any more. Or worries because Babe Ruth made a higher salary than the president of the United States.

The overlooked thing in the Isaac Curtis case which originally put California on probation is that he isn't all that good a football player. Has good size, super speed but no moves or real instinct as a runner.

Skiing as a competitive sport is really ridiculous. Four years of hard work toward an Olympics medal can be wasted if your skis hit one unexpected rut and lop 32/100 of a second off your time in an event which only lasts a minute and a half.

Pro sports are doing a marvelous job of ducking the fact that, from an athlete's standpoint, artificial surfaces are a dud and, particularly in football, diminish their skills.

Between you 'n' me, next big blowup in sports has got to revolve around the option and reserve clauses. Joe Kapp's lawyer won't stay mute forever.

Suspension upheld

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Big Ten athletic directors voted Friday to continue the suspensions of University of Minnesota basketball players Corky Taylor and Ron Behagen for the rest of the season.

The 6-9 juniors had been suspended by Big Ten commissioner Wayne Duke for their part in a melee that broke up the Jan. 25 Minnesota-Ohio State basketball game 36 seconds early.

After an eight-hour hearing Thursday, officials of seven conference athletic departments deliberated for five hours Thursday night and three more hours until noon Friday.

They ruled in a 10-page written decision that actions by both Taylor and Behagen during the ruckus which erupted in the Minnesota fieldhouse were "flagrantly unsportsmanlike."

They ruled there was not sufficient provocation for Taylor to kneel Ohio State's 7-foot Luke Witte in the groin and for Behagen to jump on Witte's neck and shoulders.

In Taylor's case they ruled that testimony claiming Witte spit on Taylor as Taylor reached to help him off the floor after a foul was inconclusive.

In Behagen's case, the athletic directors determined that a half-time incident in which Witte struck Gopher guard Bob Nix in the jaw also was not sufficient provocation.

The decision said that if the two players wished to appeal the matter to the conference faculty representatives, it must be done no later than 5 p.m. Wednesday.

The written decision said Duke sent a report to Minnesota officials on Feb. 17 saying he did not believe the university's decision to end the suspensions after three games represented "satisfactory remedial action."

Gleason Golf: 4 tied

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI)—Gene Littler gamely held on to a share of the lead in the second round of the $260,000 Jackie Gleason Invitational Golf Classic Thursday, but he was locked in a four-way tie and seven other golfers were within two shots of the lead.

Littler struggled to a one-over par 73 to tie with winless six-year tour veteran John Schlee, steady Dick Lotz and Vietnam veteran Buddy Allin, with two round totals of 138, six under par. Six golfers were tied two shots off the pace and all four of golf's superstars were within reach of the $52,000 first prize —the biggest of the year.

Lotz, seeking his first win since the 1970 Kemper Open, shot a 68, Schlee fired a three under par 69 and Allin charged up from behind with a 66 on the par 72, 7,128-yard "great one" course.

Jack Nicklaus and South African Gary Player, playing his first U.S. tournament of the year, were only three strokes behind. Arnold Palmer was four strokes down and Lee Trevino was down by five.

Lumped two strokes behind the leaders and ahead of the big names were Doug Sanders, Art Wall Jr.,

Tom Shawn, Fred Marti, Mac McLendon, Rod Funseth and Tony Jacklin, all at 140.

Hill spikers fall to Santa Barbara

"They had a couple of sprinters that just tore us up," said Buck Crosby, coach of the Cabrillo track and field team that had just suffered an 86-32 loss to Santa Barbara in the opening meet of the season, a non-league affair.

The Dons breezed to wins in the 400 relay (431.4), 100 yard dash (swept three places), 440 (swept three more), and the 220 (first two places).

Crosby was not overly concerned, emphasizing that it was merely a practice meet. The Conqs did have some winners. Gary Manus won the two-mile in 10:00.7, followed by teammate Mulholland.

Mike Drouin took the pole vault competition with 14-0 after a couple of 14-7 warmup vaults, and Teichmann of Cabrillo was second.

winners for Cabrillo were Cecil Gordon (120 highs, long jump), Al Driesbach (shot), Victor Tise (mile), Doug Wardrip (high jump), Brown (180 lows), and Florow (221).

Cabrillo freshman Terry Charles got off a fine 18-11½ long jump.

The Hill Bees lost 75-19 as Cliff Meyer took the only Conq first with a 45-3½ shot put. The Cees also lost, 45-36, despite Bruce Maple's 47-4 shot, Dave Taylor's 19.9 180, a sweep in the 180 dash (Taylor, Lee Hicks, Darryl Butler), and a 440 relay win (Hicks, Hutchinson, Butler, Taylor).

Victor Tise's 4:33.1 mile was a school junior class record. The Conqs' first home meet is a week from Wednesday with Ventura.

Future in politics?

Chones hits NY

WESTBURY, N.Y. (UPI)—Jim Chones, basketball's newest millionaire, came to New York Friday to see his first American Basketball

Association game and said he hopes to go into politics when his playing days are over.

Chones, who signed a contract for between $1.5 and $1.8 million with the New York Nets last week, also said he still plans to get his college diploma from Marquette.

Chones, who got a cram course in economics when he came to terms with the Nets last week, said he plans to switch his major at Marquette from economics to political science. "My goal is to run for political office but that's ten years away," Chones said.

The 6-foot 11 center was asked if he had any particular office in mind and replied, "I want to go as far as I can."

Chones, who came to New York with his mother Mamie and two of his four sisters (Shery, 20, and Jackie, 17), was to see his first ABA game Friday night when the Nets hosted Denver.

Chris Evert wins

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Chris Evert advanced to the semifinals of the Washington, D.C. Virginia Slims tennis tournament Friday night with a 6-2, 6-4 victory over local favorite Wendy Overton of Chevy Chase, Md.

Francisco in semi-final play Saturday.

Miss Casals eliminated Barbara Downes of Alamo, Calif., 7-6, 6-1.

Unseeded Nancy Richey Gunter of San Angelo, Tex., advanced to the semi-finals by ousting unseeded Julie Heldman of Houston, Tex., 6-1, 6-3.

Miss Gunter meets Australia's Kerry Melville who beat Francoise Durr, 6-1, 6-4.

Conqs edge Royals in swim battle

As predicted by Cabrillo coach Bob Boyer, it took the final event of the meet to decide the winner in the Conq — San Marcos swim battle yesterday.

The Cabrillomen edged the Royals by a body length in the 400 freestyle relay, winning time 3:30.5, to take the meet by a 50-45 score.

Randy Nogle, Gary Anderson, Randy Phillips, and Jeff Heidmou were the relay heroes. Anderson swam a torrid 49.2 second leg to get the Conqs the lead, and anchor man Heidmou held off a Royal challenge.

Cabrillo got off to an early 7-0 lead with a 200 medley relay win. Reeser, Heidmou, Anderson and Randy Nogle swam 1:48.9. Royal Rich Johannsen took the 200 freestyle in 1:53.5, but Don Reeser came back with a 2:13.4 first in the 200 individual medley, ahead of Johannsen.

The Conqs finished 1-2 in the 50 yard freestyle to take a 28-6 lead into the diving competition. Nogle got the 50 nod with a 24.1 time and Phillips was second despite his better time of 24.0.

San Marcos took first and second in the diving and Royal Steve Dow won the 100 butterfly in 1:00.8 as the Royals started to make their move.

Royal John Phreaner won the 100 freestyle and teammate Rich Johannsen took first in the 400 freestyle as San Marcos pulled to within two points of the Conqs.

The backstroke went to Reeser in 1:03.3 but Fred Bukowski then gave San Marcos the meet lead with a 1:09.3 first in the 100 breaststroke.

Coach Bob Boyer was busy most of the meet juggling the Conq lineup and it paid off with the win. Boyer cited Jeff Heidmou's surprising second place in the individual medley as the meet's turning point.

There was no B and C competition as the schools decided to race JV teams instead. San Marcos won 73-13.

The Conqs are now 4-0 in dual meet competition. The next swim is Thursday in Santa Maria against the San Saints.

Conq link crew wins 3rd straight

The Cabrillo linksmen played what coach Jerry Johnson termed "horrible golf" yesterday to win their third straight match, this one 34-2 over Morro Bay at the Village Country Club.

Rick Burris opened things off with a 91 over Hinson for a 6-0 Cabrillo win. Jack Dilla carded an 82, Terry McClure shot 90, Tim Lockwood fired an 84, and Jim Gray turned in an 89 round as Cabrillo swept the card.

The golfers spent most of the afternoon battling the VCC wind.

The win came on the heels of another 34-2 win, over St. Joseph last Thursday. Burris was the medalist in that one with a 76 as the Conqs averaged 79 strokes per man.

The Hill JV's also won yesterday, 8-2, as Mike Knisley was medalist with 42 for nine holes.

The Conqs next challenger will be Dos Pueblos at Cabrillo Friday.
